21 AGENDA

22
23 Rebecca Lonergan, Academic Senate President, called the meeting to order at 2:02 pm.

24
25 Approval of January Senate Meeting Draft Minutes

26 Ashley Uyeshiro Simon, Secretary General, presented the March 2020 draft minutes for discussion and 27 approval.

28
29 Rebecca Lonergan moved to approve the minutes; Chimene Tucker seconded. Motion passed with 39 in 30 favor, 0 opposed, and 0 abstentions.

31
32 Dialogue with President Folt and Provost Zukoski

33 President Carol Folt offered warm wishes to everyone in attendance during this COVID-19 pandemic. She 34 stated she has been grateful for the honest conversations she has been able to have with people, and for 35 the connection, collaboration, and cooperation that is happening across our university in ways that she has 36 never seen. For example, she has been talking with Neeraj Sood (Price School) about his work in 37 understanding how we might reopen doors to society. She stated she will need help soon to identify faculty 38 experts who can assist with different initiatives for recovery.

40 Currently, Folt stated senior leadership is focused on not laying anyone off for as long as possible, but we 41 are the largest private employer in the city with most of our revenue coming from tuition. She also plans to 42 get involved with the city to see how USC, along with others, can use our capacity to help our communities
43 and work to close gaps of inequities. On a national scale, University Trustees Rick Caruso and Oscar Munoz
44 were asked by President Trump to be on his Presidential Economic Advisory Panel to think about the 45 economic future of the country. We are also working with partners to help the State of New York.

46
47 Provost Chip Zukoski outlined the processes in place to help keep our university operational. He stated
48 decisions are being made very quickly to ensure we can continue our operations:

- 49
- 50 • The President's COVID program management committee oversees the management of the 51 university to ensure we are still operating. They meet at least once daily.
 - 52 • A Provost emergency operations committee (EOC) is looking at issues related to the Registrar, teaching, online classes, surveying constituencies, and how to continue in our mission during this 53 pandemic. Lonergan sits on this committee.

54 • Zukoski meets with the deans daily to receive updates from their schools and push out information
55 to them personally. He also meets with the Senate Executive Board each week.

56 • We have hit a point now where we are able to pull away from day-to-day decisions. There are still 57 many issues, but the vast majority of faculty and students are working online. We will begin
58 looking at a “Project Restart” which examines whether summer session 2 courses should be 59 online, how to have students return to campus, how to reopen buildings, what management 60 structures will need to be in place, and more.

61
62 Zukoski reported we are taking an enormous hit to our finances due to revenue loss, clinical care, 63 reimbursing students for housing, supporting employees for as long as possible, and more. The loss for the 64 university will be hundreds of millions of dollars. We will need to make decisions to get to stability while 65 continuing our mission. He also acknowledged each school will be affected differently. To keep enrollment 66 steady, Zukoski stated 2000 more students were admitted without diminishing the quality of students at 67 all, and that the rate of acceptances and intentions to enroll is higher than last year at this time.

68
69 Regarding online classes, the university conducted a recent survey that found large portions of faculty and 70 students are having issues with connectivity (environment, internet capabilities, hardware). This will need
71 to be thought through over the summer and into the Fall. CET continues to offer online pedagogy classes to 72 help faculty learn best practices for online teaching. Doug Shook, Chief Information Officer, is launching a 73 task force to explore issues with “Zoom bombing” which has faculty representation. They realize that some 74 faculty may need better support for working from home, such as improved IT equipment. Folt stated this is 75 a scaling issue, so deans may need to identify those who need immediate help first, then we will need to 76 have a long-term plan for IT support so we are prepared for future emergencies.

77
78 Zukoski stated he also reached out to the new deans of Dworak-Peck and Rossier to welcome them, as well
79 as to this year’s valedictorian and two salutatorians to congratulate them on their achievements. He is 80 continuing to work on filling the positions of VP of Research and VP for Enrollment Management as well.

81
82 A question was asked about whether the university would still honor the new “affordability” plan promised
83 this year, and if we will also be able to disperse awards to students as usual. Folt stated they are not 84 planning on cutting back financial aid right now, and that in fact they are expecting to spend more on aid
85 due to the impact of COVID-19 on families. Zukoski stated he expects that any student awards that have 86 already been earned would likely be fulfilled, but he would need to check, and he is unsure about next 87 year.

88
89 A senator asked when more details about the hiring pause would be announced. Zukoski stated the memo
90 about the hiring pause specified that this would be in place at least until December of this year, and would 91 be reevaluated at that time. There is an exception process in place that goes through the deans and 92 Provost, but they are trying to limit these exceptions, and the Provost is looking at each request. Another 93 faculty member stated that protecting merit raises for assistant professors will be key for ensuring these 94 faculty stay with our university. Folt stated she is unaware of any university that is not taking the same
95 steps we are, but that she agrees equity differences will need to be accounted for in our recovery plan.

96
97 Zukoski and Folt answered questions about the Fall semester. Regarding when plans for on-ground versus
98 online instruction will be announced, Zukoski stated there has been a lot of planning and discussion around
99 this, and while they have been working on plans as much as possible, there is still a lot of uncertainty so
100 they have not yet decided. The final decision for Fall must be made at least 6-8 weeks prior to the start of 101 the semester. Folt stated they are thinking about all options, for example pushing the start of classes back
102 or holding classes on weekends. They stated faculty should assume that some classes in the Fall will still 103 need to be held online, but classes which require in-person attendance may be phased back first as the 104 quality of our programs is vital. Maja Mataric is working with research deans in each school to create plans
105 for resuming research operations with social distancing, as this is a very high priority. They are still working

106 out how to deal with costs associated with shutting down and restarting labs that were not included in 107 grant budgets.

108
109 A senator asked how the administration is ensuring faculty can give meaningful input before decisions are 110 made. Zukoski stated his office is providing resources, support, centralized trainings, and the like, but it is 111 incumbent on the deans to hold conversations with their faculty and Faculty Councils to advise them. He 112 can change some structures, but the curriculum is owned by the faculty and the sequencing of classes is 113 usually decided by the departments.

114
115 Second Read & Vote: Handbook Amendments regarding Prohibition of Romantic Relationships

116 Sandeep Gupta, Chair of the Handbook Committee, presented the second read of the proposed Handbook
117 amendments. They incorporated the feedback from the first read at last month's meeting, but did not 118 make any further changes.

119
120 Todd Brun moved to approve the Handbook Amendments; Paul Adler seconded. Motion passed 121 unanimously with 44 in favor, 0 opposed, and 0 abstentions.

122
123 First Read of Miscellaneous Handbook Amendments

124 Gupta presented the first read of miscellaneous changes to the Handbook, suggested by the Handbook
125 Committee. These amendments reflect updated titles, policies that were in place but were not noted in the 126 Handbook, references for section and clause numbers, and other related items. He briefly outlined some of 127 the modifications, but stated senators should read through them thoroughly before they are presented for 128 a vote at the next meeting. He asked senators to please contact him and Lonergan should any questions
129 come up. He clarified that senators should pay special attention to the modifications in yellow highlight, as 130 these require a closer look.

131
132 Upcoming Direct Election of Executive Board Members

133 Paul Adler, Academic Vice President, gave an update on the upcoming Senate Executive Board elections
134 and introduced all of the candidates. He stated all faculty (full-time, part-time, and retired) will be getting 135 an invitation to vote tomorrow, and faculty can vote until April 27th. He expressed his gratitude for those 136 willing to serve, and for the diversity of the slate. He noted the Executive Board added two voluntary 137 questions at the end of the ballot (about school and track) to get a measure of engagement in these direct 138 elections.

139
140 Discussion regarding New Scientific Misconduct Policy and Lab Safety Policy

141 Travis Williams, Chair of the Research Committee, and Kristen Grace, Research Integrity Officer in the 142 Office of Research, gave a presentation concerning two new policies that the Research Committee is 143 recommending USC adopt.

144
145 The first is a laboratory personnel protection policy which seeks to institute safety measures to adhere to 146 safety policy. Williams stated a UC Regents settlement defined stringent lab procedures for safety, and USC
147 will be held to these standards if sued. Should a student be injured in a professor's lab or class, that 148 professor bears personal, civil, and other liabilities which are exacerbated if that professor is running
149 multiple labs and/or lectures at the same time. There are also situations in which some graduate students
150 are teaching at night, without immediate access to staff or the professor should something go wrong. This 151 policy charges the administration, and especially Facilities Management Services, to provide spaces that are 152 compliant with these standards, ensures proper oversight of all classes and labs, and considers PI safety
153 records for promotion, tenure, and merit review as recommended by the National Academies. The 154 Research Committee is currently seeking approval for the policy at the administrative level.

156 The second policy would control research and scholarly misconduct investigations. Williams stated USC's 157 current policy only meets minimum standards, and that we have fallen behind our peers. Kristen Grace was

158 hired last summer to help us become leaders in this area. Significant policy changes that are being 159 recommended include

- 160 • Having a standing committee on research integrity (with members appointed by the Provost to 161 serve for 3 years) instead of an ad-hoc three-person committee, which will oversee panels of at 162 least three people needed to review the documents and make recommendations and send them to 163 the Provost.
- 164 • Inquiry panels will be appointed by the Vice President of Research. Previously deans appointed 165 panels, which introduced potential conflict of interest.
- 166 • Timelines are well delineated, as are processes for what to do if timelines are not met.
- 167 • The overall process is more carefully detailed (see the presentation for an overview).
- 168 • Only the Research Integrity Officer, in consultation with the Vice President of Research, can dismiss 169 an allegation or start an inquiry after a preliminary analysis. Inquiries involve preliminary fact-
170 finding, and the ultimate decision of whether to launch a full investigation goes to the Provost for 171 approval.

173 It was clarified that the purpose of this presentation was to get recommendations from the Senate. The 174 Senate Executive Board recommended the policies be approved, and the approval process is awaiting the 175 Provost and President.

176
177 A question was asked about how to get someone to review high-hazard materials. The presenters advised
178 people email labsafety@usc.edu to bring someone from Environmental Health and Safety and Shop Safety
179 to the space and do an interview. They will work with the course directors to come up with 180 recommendations. Williams recommended faculty write to their deans if they believe there should be 181 faculty or staff oversight mandated for certain courses or labs.

182
183 Faculty were asked to contact Williams if they have questions.

184
185 New Business

186 No new business presented.

187
