25 AGENDA

26
27 Call to order: Margo K. Apostolos, Senate President

28 Academic Senate President Apostolos called the meeting to order at 2:01pm.

29 Welcome

30 Dr. Howard Hu, Professor & Flora L. Thornton Chair, brought a welcome and greeting from the 31 Department of Population and Public Health Sciences, Keck School of Medicine. He gave an 32 overview of the department's size and work.
33

34 Discussion with President Carol Folt and Provost Andrew Guzman

35 President Folt recognized the first USC celebration Native American Heritage Month. More than 36 300 people attended and participated. President Folt also shared statistics about the current
37 student demographic who identify as Native, Indigenous, and Pacifica, which has increased
38 from 458 undergraduates and 356 graduate students in 2019 to 515 undergraduates and 375
39 graduate students. She shared “when we have numbers, we can help people feel more 40 belonging and see themselves and know more about their voice.”
41

42 President Folt addressed the current state of affairs with regard to those affected by the events
43 in Gaza. She shared that “we are in a moment that is affecting so many people.” The USC's
44 Network of Informational and Support Resources in Times of Conflict page is updated
45 regularly. USC hosted the first seminar on anti-semitism in higher education last week.
46

47 Provost Guzman recognized the Office of Student Life, Religious Life, and DPS as these offices
48 have done a fantastic job of ensuring the safety and support of students. He thanked all faculty,
49 many of whom have been affected directly, but also who care for our students. Provost
50 Guzman recognized that “a lot has to happen in the classroom and in the lab on a student level”
51 and “we just haven’t had an enormous amount of dissatisfaction and unrest in the classroom
52 and that tells me that faculty are doing the right thing and ensuring the educational mission
53 continues.” He encouraged faculty to, whenever possible, to treat people with respect and act
54 in ways that are building community.
55

56 A Senator asked about whether Native American scholarships would be made difficult due to 57 the Supreme Court decision? President Folt shared that there is a team working on this and that 58 there are many ways to bring prospective students in that have interests in these areas. She 59 added that we have every right to be more aggressive in our pre-admission process so that
60 we’re more diverse in our applicant pool. Provost Guzman added that the Supreme Court
61 decision is relatively narrow in that it’s focused on the admissions decision.
62

63 A Senator asked about concerns regarding free speech for faculty. Provost Guzman shared that
64 a lot of what’s online is not accurate in many different ways but the University wants to make 65 sure that the campus remains safe. One of the things the University has managed to avoid on 66 campus is confrontations. President Folt added that no one has been removed from 67 campus. She added “we are deeply concerned about safety. If we think there’s real risk, we will 68 act to protect the people while we try to understand it.” A suggestion was made to clarify
69 language in the Faculty Handbook so that people have a clearer understanding of matters
70 pertaining to faculty academic freedom and freedom of expression.
71

72 A Senator asked whether retired faculty have academic freedom. President Folt noted that 73 academic freedom pertains to doing your job, teaching a class, etc. She posed the question,
74 “What is the university’s responsibility to this?” and stated that “It’s more complicated than it 75 sounds.”
76

77 Provost Guzman shared that a Union strike date is scheduled for November 28th if there isn’t 78 an agreement. Andy Stott has been reaching out to Deans of Faculty to prepare for the 79 eventuality of a strike. Provost Guzman asked faculty to make sure that they have access to 80 their own research. “How will you complete your teaching responsibilities if there is a strike?”
81 He shared that the rules around influencing students are complex and unfavorable to 82 employers so it’s important to not persuade a student to not strike. It’s also the case that if a
83 grad student chooses to come to work, they are entitled to do so and that’s absolutely ok.
84

85 Health and Safety Discussion

86 Dr. Sarah Van Orman, Vice President and Chief Campus Health Officer, gave an overview of her
87 role and vision around campus health to support student, staff, and faculty. She discussed
88 nutrition, Mental Health, and Sustainability and how we make choices that impact ourselves
89 and our community.
90

91 Dr. Van Orman noted a convening of the Well Being Collective on Monday, November 13 to 92 discuss how to promote student wellness. Her office will collaborate with the Office of Student
93 Live and Chris Manning's office to bring Jean Twenge, a national expert on generations, to 94 campus in February to discuss how generations are functioning both in the academic as well as 95 the workplace.
96

97 Past President Pecchenino asked about the overlap of students and mental health. Dr. Van
98 Orman shared information about the Student Wellbeing Index Survey which looks at eight key
99 performance indicators. The measures they are following are "flourishing" and "belonging."
100 They have good longitudinal data from the last 5 years from that survey which includes data
101 from Counseling and Mental Health services. When looking at the undergraduates, they tend to 102 be doing worse than graduate students with regard to belonging and flourishing. Anxiety is 103 more common than depression nationally in young adults.
104

105 Dr. Van Orman addressed questions around mental health first aid curriculum, suicide rates,
106 gender affirming care, first year and second year courses on consent for students,
107 resources/workshops for faculty, and Narcan resources.
108

109 Approval of the September and October Meeting Minutes; Christal Young, Secretary General

110 Secretary Young presented the September and October Academic Senate meeting minutes for 111 approval.

112 Motion to approve September minutes. Seconded and passed. 26 in favor, 3 opposed, 1
113 abstention.

114 Motion to approve October minutes. Seconded and passed. 25 in favor, 0 opposed, 0
115 abstentions.
116

117 Discussion on Graduate Student Unionization

118 Andrew Stott, Vice Provost for Academic Programs and Dean of the Graduate school provided
119 updates on graduate school unionization and strike. Of the students represented by United 120 Auto Workers, 97% are PhD students and 3% are masters students. The students voted to go on 121 strike on November 28th unless the University will offer them a "fair contract." The three 122 outstanding issues include:

- 123 1. Wages - The minimum stipend that a graduate student will make for 20 hours a week of 124 work as a teaching assistant, research assistant, or assistant lecturer.
- 125 2. Union security - Whether students are obligated to become members of the union
126 (closed union shop) or can elect to be members of the union or not (open union shop)
- 127 3. Non-discrimination clause - Codifies prescribed behaviors that the University will not 128 tolerate. The union would like this clause to be subject to the grievance and arbitration
129 clause and would have a parallel process.

Dean Stott encouraged faculty to consider alternative forms of grading in anticipation of the pending strike.

A senator asked if faculty are able to ask whether students are going on strike. Stott shared that faculty are not allowed to ask students about their intentions or activities around union organizing. Faculty can continue to have discussions with them about their academic progress.
